Artémis Domaines and Maisons & Domaines Henriot unite their wine estates

The Pinault and Henriot families, owners of Artémis Domaines and Maisons & Domaines Henriot respectively, are pooling their wine estates. This merger gives birth to a unique ensemble in the world of exceptional wines.

The new group, which retains the name Artémis Domaines, is majority owned by the Pinault family alongside the families that own Maisons & Domaines Henriot as minority shareholders.

It has a supervisory board chaired by Gilles de Larouzière Henriot and will be managed by Frédéric Engerer, Managing Director of Artémis Domaines, together with all the teams.

François Pinault, owner of Artémis Domaines, said: "The merger of Maisons & Domaines Henriot and Artémis Domaines is a wonderful opportunity to bring together the treasures of our wine heritage under the same banner. It is a guarantee that a French group will ensure the long-term preservation of such jewels and continue the quest for excellence that has marked their prestigious history."

Gilles de Larouzière Henriot, CEO of Maisons & Domaines Henriot, said: "For the estates of our family group, this alliance is full of promise. With Artémis Domaines, we share a deep attachment to the exceptional wine heritage of France and the ambition to fully develop the incomparable ensemble that we constitute through the combination of our estates. This operation is intended to be carried out over several generations, in the image of the long time that makes great wines."

This transaction is effective as of September 30, 2022.

About Maisons & Domaines Henriot

The family-owned group Maisons & Domaines Henriot owns Bouchard Père & Fils in Beaune, William Fèvre in Chablis, Maison Henriot in Champagne and Beaux-Frères in Oregon.

Since 1808, Champagne Henriot has belonged to the very small circle of historical champagne houses that have remained entirely independent and family-owned.

Since 1731, Bouchard Père & Fils has gathered a fabulous vineyard heritage of nearly 100 hectares in the Côte-d'Or, including many precious parcels, such as Montrachet, Chevalier Montrachet, Vigne de l'Enfant Jésus, Corton Charlemagne, Bonnes Mares, Chambertin or Meursault Genevrières.

Domaine William Fèvre is the most important Grand Cru producer in Chablis.

Created in 1986, Beaux-Frères is now a reference in Oregon.
